FTU Animal Control Center Named

By Paula Wisor

The University Police Department has been designated as FTU's animal control center.

Recently Mr. R.N. Peruf, Director of the Physical Plant, implemented a policy for the capture, maintenance and removal of "unauthorized" animals on campus.

"In order to reflect concern for all animals, whether owned pets or unowned stray animals, we have developed a policy for animals on campus," said Mr. Peruf.

First, all animals on campus must be leashed at all times. However, even leashed animals are not allowed in any University buildings, including dormitories, teaching areas, etc.

An exception to this rule would be seeing-eye dogs who may be admitted when accompanied by their masters.

Second, animals that roam on campus with no apparent owner will be taken into custody and impounded in a holding area next to the University Police Department for one night only.

Efforts will be made to locate the owner. If the owner cannot be contacted, the Orange County Animal Control Department will be notified to move the animal to their facilities.

It is unlawful to leave an animal unattended in an automobile with or without windows of the automobile lowered.

Therefore, if an animal is found in a parked car, University Police will attempt to contact the owner and advise them of this violation. Repeated violations will result in the animal being moved to the holding area, and the violation reported to the Orlando Humane Society.

Horses will only be allowed in uncultivated areas, since there are no riding trails on campus.

Horses will not be permitted on asphalt surfaces or on cultivated areas so that landscaping, grounds, and recreation areas may be preserved for the use and enjoyment of all the University community.

"This policy was established to ensure proper treatment of all animals on campus to protect persons on campus from unfriendly animals, to preserve University grounds, and also to uphold local ordinances and state statutes," said Mr. Peruf.

Employees Have Voice In Working Conditions

By Cameron Pyle

This is the third year of operations for the FTU Staff Council, whose activities maintain a vital communications link between career service employees and the university administration.

Of primary concern to the council is the welfare of career employees and they regularly entertain suggestions and questions regarding such things as worker benefits and general working conditions, prior to making their recommendations to administration officials.

In council elections held last April, Staff Assistant for Student Affairs, Carrie M. Johnston, was named this year's chairman.

The remaining nine members of the Council are elected from among Student, Business, and Academic Affairs - three officers from each branch.

Those selected were: Bill Hostetler and Pete Arnett of Computer Services; Budd Mann of Physical Plant Maintenance; Ralph Weitzel, VC Custodial Supervisor; Ron Nebgen of Student Placement Services; Carleen Boyd, Secretary of Public Information; Sonia Cirocco of the Registrar's Office; J. C. Kinsey of the University Libraries and Gertrude Adams, a lab technician from Biological Sciences.

Acting as liaison between the Council and President Millican is John P. Goree, Vice-President for Business Affairs.

In past years, the council has discussed such varied concerns as the implementation of active on-campus safety procedures, lowering the quarterly charge of parking decals for employees and pay increases, to keep pace with the rising cost of living.

The Council maintains a Career Service Newsletter and periodically hosts social functions, like its Annual Staff Awards Dinner, which was organized to honor and give official recognition to praiseworthy individuals among their ranks.

According to Johnston, more recent happenings within the Council have been the establishment of a Safety Committee and the obtaining of administration approval for the placement of micro-wave ovens in the library lounge and Power Plant.

The ovens, affording people the opportunity to cook and reheat food brought from their homes, were requested essentially because of the somewhat prohibitive cost of prepared foods at FTU, which is another story in itself.

Meetings of the Staff Council are held in the Library Conference Room every other Thursday at one o'clock.

Johnston stated that interested individuals not connected with career services are also welcome to attend.

Publication Advisory Board Meets

By Deborah Whaley

The Publications Advisory Board (PAB) met this week to adopt a formal constitution. The PAB acts in an advisory capacity to the FuTure.

The members of the PAB were appointed by Dr. Grasty last spring.

Dr. Grasty said that the formation of the PAB was "undertaken to improve the total operation of the FuTure."

An important point discussed at the meeting was how the editor is to be selected. In the past the editor was trained by the outgoing editor and confirmed by Dr. Grasty and President Millican.

In the future, students desiring to be editor will submit an application to an elections committee. Requirements concerning grades, experience and length of time at FTU must be met before an applicant can apply.

The editor is responsible for the editorial content of the paper, the layout of the front page and the editorial page of the paper.

The editor also oversees the FuTure staff and handles all problems that arise.

Plans for the formation of a Committee on Accuracy and Fair Play were also discussed.

Dr. Fedler, chairman of the PAB said that similar systems are used by many other universities with good success.

Dr. Fedler said that in the future students will have greater control over student publications. Any student dissatisfied with anything in the FuTure will have the opportunity to voice complaints.

Proposed membership of the PAB will be the student editor of the FuTure, two undergraduate students, one graduate student, one faculty member from Business Administration, one faculty member with professional media experience from the Journalism area, and one professional journalist from the Central Florida area.

Formerly, a Director of Publications advised the staff of the FuTure.

Elections Commission Invalidates Elections

By John Bridges

Results of the Student Government Senate elections were invalidated by the elections commission Tuesday, as the commission found "errors in procedure" concerning election statutes.

The problems concerning the election began last Friday when senate candidate Bob Glotfelty "contested" the election over the absence of 53 absentee ballots for Co-op students.

According to Hunter Potts, SG President, the problem was the result of a tardy absentee ballot request. The request from Mr. Ted Rajchel, Director of the Co-op Program, was addressed to Mr. Jimmie A. Ferrell of Student Organizations, but should have gone to SG or Student Affairs.

Ferrell apparently sent the request through the campus mail system, which delivered the letter to Potts after the request deadline.

Mark Hammond, executive adviser to the SG president, said that to accept the late request would have been in violation of election statutes, but added that to refuse "would have seemed unfair".

Upon examination of the election statutes, Hammond and John Kelley found other errors had been committed and called for a meeting of the elections commission.

After the meeting the commission issued a report citing five violations of election procedures, including a failure of poll workers to stamp the ballots making them valid, late appointment of the poll workers, failure to hold a meeting of the candidates and extension of the deadline requiring candidates to file expense reports.

Jeff Cepuran, commissioner of elections, said that he had only received 24 of the 55 candidates' reports as of Tuesday and that unless they were received by Wednesday, those candidates would not be permitted to run. "Vacancies," he said, "can be filled by appointment."

Hammond said he was proud of the actions taken by the organization and that they indicated a positive approach. Individuals which were blamed for the errors were taking the responsibility for their correction.

According to Cepuran, the next elections will probably be held in a month.

Only approximately 300 of the estimated 9,000 students eligible voted. The number of eligible voters was expanded to include part-time as well as full-time students.

Grasty, FTU Vice President for Community Relations, with a check for $125 for the purchase of a portable microfiche reader to be made available to students who are handicapped in their mobility. Students receiving the reader also will receive from the FTU Library a complete set of library listings on microfiche which will be updated every quarter of the year. The reader will be assigned to a student as long as he is enrolled at FTU, permitting him to select reading material from his home. (FTU Official Photo.)

Navy Recruits Student For Nuclear Program

By Dana Eagles

The trend toward reducing use of fossil fuels to power energy plants, especially those on board U.S. Navy vessels, may be providing new opportunities for college seniors interested in the field of nuclear energy.

According to Washington's Navy Recruitment Command, the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate (Collegiate) Program NUPOC (has come about as an effort to recruit more applicants at the college level than has been possible in the professional world's zero-draft environment.

NUPOC, the graduate-level program, has had difficulty competing with inducements from major industries, and thus has initiated the collegiate extension in hopes of recruiting college seniors as possible nuclear scientists in the military world.

The program which was begun in January, limits enrollment to 150 young men per fiscal year.

Only seniors from non-NROTC colleges are eligible. Candidates who must be between 19 and 26½ at the time of commissioning, are eligible for interviewing no earlier than the summer preceding their senior year in school.

All candidates must have successfully completed 90 semester-hours or 135-quarter hours and be within ten months of graduation when ordered to active duty. Required subjects for eligibility include at least one year of integral calculus and one year of physics.

Those selected by the Director of the Division of Naval Reactors will be enlisted in the Naval Reserve and will attend a short indoctrination course in Washington, D.C.

Upon completion of the course, they will be ordered to the Naval Reserve location nearest their home for duty purposes while they complete their college education, receiving full "E-3" pay and allowances, which are subject to the restriction of a maximum of two dependents, unless waivers are granted for cases such as child support or alimony from previous marriages.

Candidates are also subject to physical requirements of the "Unrestricted Line."

Editorial

Rights are a funny thing. When a person obtains rights he may seldom use them. When that same person doesn't have rights he wants them.

Over the past several years, through pressure on legislators, the 18-21 year olds were given the right to vote. It was a hard fought battle that brought about many heated debates. But the voice of the new adults rang clear: WE WANT TO VOTE. Now, not many years later, voter apathy seems to be prevalent.

It wouldn't be so bad if the newly enfranchised voters could cover up their apathy by the overall number of people turning out for elections. But the plain truth is that not only are the young voters not voting, no one seems to be voting.

When America was still a colony, it fought England to have representation. Today, Americans are content to let a very few people decide who will represent them from the local and state level, right up to the white house. Yet, these same people are quick to judge and condemn when any elected official turns out to do a poor job, or does not represent his constituents in the manner he wants them to.

After America became a nation, the Founding Fathers set about immediately to insure that there would be representative government. This was a time when the person running for office really went out to win votes. The liquor ran freely, and the speech was eloquent at election time. The voter expected to be treated by the office seeker to liquor, free lodging or food. It was a time when the voter felt that the office seeker should respect him. It was a time when the voter felt that voting was a privilege to be highly regarded.

Today, there are no requirements to vote except residency and citizenship laws. Yet when property requirements were in effect in early America, it was against the law not to vote if at all possible. Voting was the way Americans wanted the system to work, and voting was used.

When Student Government holds elections, ads are placed in the FuTure. Stories are run about elections and candidates. Posters are placed all over the school by office seekers who want the vote of the students. Yet the majority of the students seem oblivious to the announcements. And the ones who do know that there is an election do not seem to care if they vote or not.

Out of thousands of FTU students, 300 showed up to vote at the SG election last week. Thank goodness there is another opportunity for each voter to reconsider his apathy. SG elections were contested and will be rescheduled in the near future. It is important that each person remember his privilege and even his duty to vote. It is the way America was founded and built. One

On the basis of voting, America will either grow or die.

Student Complains Of SG Elections

Editor:

I would like to give you one student's views on the Student Government Senate Elections. To put it simply - it stunk.

The campaign to let the students know there actually was an election was okay; but they could have done much more. The Student Government put a full page ad in the FuTure. They also listed the election on some schedules of events. If they advertised any more than this, I missed it. I just don't think they did enough. They could have at least supplemented this with some posters around campus urging students to get out and vote.

Okay, even if you did know when to vote and had a vague idea of which day goes with which date, where do you vote? My roommate tells me you go to the Kiosk. How many in-coming freshmen or transfer students know who or what the Kiosk is? I happen to be among them. Please give me a hint - is it animal or vegetable....?

This is one of my major gripes. The Kiosk should have been better marked. They definitely needed more to mark it than one small poster resting on the ground.

Sure, more publicity won't make all the students vote in these elections. More than likely the majority of the students still won't vote, but at least give them a fighting chance. You're bound to get a better turn-out.

There was an obvious communication gap during the elections. The problem seems to be that the Student Government isn't making a name for itself among the students. It seems to be too tied up with the administration and worrying if its rules are phrased correctly. Also, when it does sponsor events it should really advertise that the Student Government is sponsoring the event. I think "What has the Student Government done for me?" is the attitude too many students take. I wonder how many of them would answer nothing or almost nothing.

Don't take my word for it. Investigate. Take an opinion poll or something. There are many

I really don't feel like doing anything. It's the weather, I know. I'm suffering from spring fever in early fall. It's a bad time to feel this way because I've got exams to study for and cartoons to draw and a column to write...Maybe I just won't do the column. I have a hell of a time finding things to write about anyway. Nobody calls me with any hot tips.

The rest of the staff is having the same problem. Our news editor has to dig to find stories to assign to our crack reporters. The photo editor sends photographers chasing after parachutists and wet cats. And our editor can't seem to get information from or appointments with people in the glass building ("Kathy who? Oh...yes dear.

Well, I think I can set you up to see him two weeks from this Thursday. Will that be too late?") But generally there just isn't anything going on.

I've been bothering people all day in an attempt to get some ideas. One reporter told me that the school has been given a statue to put in the middle of the "inflecting" pond. He didn't know exactly what it was a statue of, however. So we sat around trying to decide what would be most appropriate. We finally agreed upon a fat cherub, balanced on the toes of one foot, spouting water from puckered lips. But there really wasn't a story in that.

Another reporter suggested that I do a column on some of the lecherous (well, one in particular, actually) professors we have here at swinging Tech U. I probably will do something of that sort in the future, but it will have to wait until I have the time to do a little investigating.

Kathy (our editor) told me there is going to be a 10 per cent hike in the price of something...I forget what. I guess I don't remember because I'm really not surprised at a 10 per cent hike in the price of anything. Besides, I've already done a column about 10 per cent hikes.

That's about the extent of what is happening. But just you watch, the minute I turn this in to be proofread and set in type there will be a massive streak through the third floor of the administration building. Hey...that's an idea!

We Need Some Policy

By Dana Eagles

Pardon-plagued Gerald Ford and his troops of economy-plagued advisors have at last revealed the long-awaited plan to restore order to fiscal chaos, hold unemployment at its present level, cut the rate of inflation by early next year, return the spirit of resourcefulness and thrift, tighten everyone's belt, and serve to paralyze, if not deaden the President's "public enemy number one".

It became apparent to many that Ford wasn't shooting to kill, but that the poison dart had backfired and was heading directly for Middle America. Those returning to the scene of the crime were disappointed by the motis operandi and established the motive as political stop-gapping rather than malice.

We Need Some Policy

The crux of Ford's proposal, a five percent surcharge on families with income over $15,000 per year and individuals over $7500, was met with the predictable level of ha-ha's from consumers, who have categorically rejected the word "tax" as an obscenity as well as any explanation thereof. Little does Mr. Anybody care that higher taxes may or may not straighten out the economy when he has to pay it plus bear the added burden of inflation-ridden goods and services.

While Ford may have deserved criticism directed at his insidious "Whip Inflation Now"-club campaign (send two boxtops, no stamps, please) it is precisely this sort of rampant cynicism that makes the problem of spiraling prices a seemingly unsolvable one. At a time when than the soldier, a better legislator than the senator, simply by virtue of the fact that he put them there.

While our naivete was dangerous, the loss of our political virginity has made us arrogant and curiously disinterested. The sad, but inevitable attitude has crept in that when selecting from a field of buffoons or buffoonery, one jerk is as good as another.

We have matured, radically and perhaps irreversibly, past instant trust and easy answers. Yet the economic situation has also progressed past debate and past theory. We must try some policy now. Later will be the time for pointing fingers. Two hundred and ten million doctors all trying to nurse the same nauseous economy will produce no workable prognosis.

If we fail to effect a more-than-casual, more-than-academic interest in the grim economic horizon, we deserve whatever may ensue: 1970's-style victory gardens, central air-side chats with Jerry Ford, and the modern depression environment New Times envisions as "bread lines at McDonald's".

Americans starving for an answer might be expected to grasp at anything, nearly all ideas short of wage-and-price controls offered by experts have been rejected, and we face the possibility that our post-Watergate leeriness of government officialdom has made the citizen somehow more of an authority on economics than the economist, a better military man

The practice of eating animals is causing suffering and death to animals, to us through meat-related disease, to the Planet through the accumulation of insecticides, and to the twenty million who will starve to death this year.

Vegetarians Leonardo Da Vinci, Leo Tolstoy, G.B. Shaw, Francis of Assisi, Gandhi, Thoreau, and millions of others have refrained from eating meat because it is an innocent slaughtered animal, unjustly raised only to be butchered and eaten. Ethical vegetarians believe that the eating of meat violates reverence for life, nonviolence, and the spark of soul in everything that creeps and crawls.

Every pound of meat represents twenty-one pounds of grain and grass fed to the animal. Cows, pigs, and sheep are protein factories in reverse. Henry Kissinger, Edward Kennedy, Hubert Humphrey, The New York Times, The Washington Post, and churches everywhere are asking Americans to cut down on meat out of the concept of feed the hungry. The world has only twenty-seven days of grain stored.

The American Cancer Society has labeled meat the No. one cause of intestinal cancer. The American Heart Association has linked animal fat to America's soaring rate of cardiovascular disease, since meat eaters' heartbeats are 72 per minute on average, while vegetarians are 58. things that can be done. The Student Government should better find out what the students want; not by the old suggestion box routine, but by getting out and talking to some students! Most of them won't know what they want, but at least they will know the Student Government is alive and well at FTU. I urge them not to just sit around and hope the students will come to them.

I wonder how many students actually know who their representative is?

Sincerely,

Robert L. Smithers

Editor's Note: It is surprising that with all the campaign posters staring you in the face that you didn't have an idea that elections were at hand. However, keep reading the FuTure to find out the time and place of the newly scheduled SG elections and you'll get your chance to vote.

After you have attended FTU for a while, you will find out that nothing changes the number of people turning out at elections: the students apparently are more apathetic than uninformed.

FTU Republicans Elect New President

By John Bridges

FTU College Republicans have elected Rob Vezina president of the organization for the upcoming year.

Vezina succeeds Monte Shoemaker, who served as interim president through the summer.

Also elected to office were John Kelley, vice president and Susan Karrikk, correspondence secretary.

The new president said the organization's purpose is to get students "involved" to help the Republican party and local candidates and inform voters in general.

Vezina added that the last figures he saw indicated 27 per cent of registered voters were Republican and that there is "no better time for young Republicans to assert themselves."

The Republicans hold regular weekly meetings and membership is open to students with the only charge being $1 per quarter.

The FTU Republicans this past weekend hosted the Florida College Republican Federation Executive Board and Committee meetings.

Co-Op Program Provides Benefits

by Marcy Muramatsu

The Cooperative Education (Co-Op) program at FTU is a balanced, educational program enabling the student to "blend theory with practice."

Students participating in the program combine periods of study with periods of on-the-job training in positions that relate as closely as possible to his studies and interests.

The Co-Op program at FTU is directed by T. P. "Ted" Rajchel, with Frank Simmons acting as assistant project director.

Simmons said, "We have students all over the United States. Currently, about 250 students from FTU are connected with our program." "Since its beginnings in the fall of 1969," Simmons continued, "the students have grossed over $1 million."

Salaries are set by the individual companies and concerns cooperating. The financial assistance which results can be of great help to the expenses of a college education--it is often these funds which makes the education possible.

The Co-Op program benefits to both the student and to the employer. Students gain on-the-job experience, personal and professional growth, a wider job choice and better salary offers upon graduation.

The program provides employers with a regular flow of qualified talent year-round; students who are well-motivated toward learning.

In addition, the Co-Op Council, a group of students within the program, sponsor a Junior Achievement group.

Simmons, an adviser for the group, said J. A. is made up of high school sophomores through seniors who organize and actually run a business. The Co-Op Council sponsors a J. A. group called Dyn-O-mite and acts as their counseling firm.

Developmental Center Offers Counseling

By John Bridges

"We handle just about anything that anybody walks in with."

That is the way Dr. Tom Borowy described the scope of the personal counseling services of the FTU Developmental Center.

The services have handled a wide variety of problems in the past, ranging from students trying to stop smoking and having problems overeating, to drug problems and potential suicides.

Dr. Dan Walton said a good portion of his work comes from students who have made "unreasonable demands" of themselves, or have had problems with personal relationships. He added that the two counselors and the center's director, Dr. Tucker, try to "calm down" the individual and help in solution of the problem.

Marriage counseling or "couple counseling" makes up about half of Dr. Borowy's counseling work.

Dr. Borowy explained that, as of last year, about 2500 of FTU's 7,100 students were married--a high proportion-- and that the average age of FTU students was approximately three years higher than that of the "average university." The result is problems of a mature nature.

Both counselors said that the center's orientation is toward a "humanistic" approach rather than clinical. This means the emphasis is more "in tune" with the college population and is on the individual, his "growing" and the solution of his problems, rather than categorization of the individual and "treating" or "curing".

The center's records are completely confidential. That confidentiality cannot be challenged by the university administration.

Dr. Borowy said that he has often been asked things like,

"Will this go on my university records?" or "Will the dean find out if I talk about dope?" The answer is no.

Dr. Borowy emphasized further that the entire developmental center is a "student service" and that he personally sees the center as a "place to explore anything you want."

To gain more information on this aspect of the center's services, phone the center at 275-2811 or stop by room 116, Residence Dorm C.

Engineering Designated "Professional School"

by Paula Wisor

The College of Engineering has been designated as the "professional school" on campus.

President Millican has approved a new plan that is to immediately implement the professional school concept in the College of Engineering, initiating two changes.

First, it requires a change in the concept and philosophy of the college.

"There's a need for more competent people to serve our society effectively, so the College of Engineering recognizes this need by altering the stress and emphasis of its program," said Dr.

Robert Kersten, Dean of the College of Engineering.

The second change of the plan requires added faculty qualifications.

The new requisites include registered professional engineer status and continues maintenance of competence through education and professional activities.

Already 80 percent of the faculty has achieved registered engineer status. The professors have a two year period in which to become licensed. After that time those who are not registered engineers will not be dismissed but will be given another title besides professor.

Flu Shot Offered

By Pat Strange

Have you had your flu shot? Safety and Health officer James K. Eller, FTU medical director Dr. Stoner are concerned about the number of students who have not taken advantage of the flu shots which they have already paid for.

Faculty and staff members should also take advantage of the vaccine available at the Health Center. The cost to them is $2.

When obtained from a private doctor, the cost can be as high as $10.

After the vaccine is administered, it sometimes takes weeks before an individual becomes immune. As the flu season is not far away, said Eller, the shots should be taken as soon as possible.

The vaccine, known as Fluzone, is effective on type B, representative of type A, Port Chalmers and Hong Kong strains of flu, Eller said.

According to Eller, an outbreak of flu approaching epidemic proportions, has been reported in the state of Georgia. "Anything that gets as far south as Georgia," said Eller, "comes to Florida on vacation."

Eller said students are taking a big chance if they do not get the shots.

With the flu you can easily lose two weeks of classes, which would put you so far behind, you could never catch up.

Eller said, "Suppose a senior who is to graduate this quarter should get the flu and have to drop out of classes because of time lost. He might have a job waiting for him at $150 per week. If he loses 10 weeks (one quarter) that's $1,500 he's lost."

The best time to get the shots is between one p.m. and 11 p.m.

Hundreds of students have already taken advantage of the free shots, but Eller and Dr. Stoner would like to see each student at FTU get them before the flu season strikes.

Gaudnek Show

Dr. Walter Gaudnek, associate professor with Humanities and Fine Arts, currently has a show at the Lockhaven Art Center. The exhibit is free and open to the public.

Lockhaven's hours are from ten A. M. to five P.M. Tuesday thru Saturday and from two P.M. to five P.M. on Sundays. The museum is closed on Mondays.

The exhibit will run through Nov. third.

Gaudnek expressed the opinion that his paintings express the cosmic rhythms of a profound Spiritualism Primitivism. The inspiration for his work, he says, comes solely from meditation.

The paintings evoke a sensation of simplification of technique and formal immediacy.

Gaudnek has taught religious symbolism, art theory and criticism, history of art, painting and drawing at FTU since 1970.

He has lectured and had his work exhibited throughout the U.S. and Europe.

Movie Schedule

Arla Filko

The Village Center is showing the movie, "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing," October 23, 25, and 26.

The film, starring Burt Reynolds, Sara Miles and Lee J. Cobb will be shown at the four p.m. Wednesday matinee and at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings in the Village Center Assembly Room.

Admission is free to all FTU students, faculty and staff, with a charge of $1.00 for the general public.

Record Reviews

By Ike Harnson

It's sure good to be back in the south again.

Not that I'm fond of the weirdoes that this part of the state seems to attract, nor do I care for the hot and humid weather.

It's the fact that the south supports the leading sounds in music today that brings this area its recognition. From Elvis through the Allman Brothers, the south has been seen as a major influence on music eras.

Many new Top LP's reflect this now rising influence.

An Anthology Vol. 11

Duane Allman

Capricorn 2CP

There's no way I could write an un-biased review on the works of Duane Allman, nor would I pretend to.

There has never before been a more dynamic, involving guitarist. From his early days at Daytona Beach with the Allman Brothers through the recording of "Eat a Peach," Duane was always recognized as a superior in his field.

Duane shines through as a master on furious lead riffs as well as in his wailing slide solos.

The album includes a lot of great blues with Aretha Franklin, Otis Rush and Wilson Pickett's "Born To Be Wild."

Duane handles vocals on two cuts from the double album, (it wasn't exactly his specialty) and there are four songs with all of the Brothers: "Midnight Rider," "Dimples," (one of Duane's vocals), "Leave My Blues At Home" and "Done Somebody Wrong" off of their classic live album, "Fillmore East."

On October 29, 1971, Duane swerved on his cycle to avoid a truck, which had turned in front of him. He died three hours later in emergency surgery.

The band held together behind the genius of the Duane-influenced Dicky Betts and are still considered top notch in the southern tradition.

Feats Don't Fail Me Now

Little Feat

Warner Brothers BS2784

The second album of the rockin' country group known as "Little Feat" should be accepted as readily as their debut album of a year ago.

The simple, southern lyrics of the group brings out its mellowness, but can still really move in such cuts as "Rock and Roll Doctor".

Bill Payne continues to set the pace in dynamic piano runs.

The album is filled with brilliantly arranged percussion by Sam Clayton and a leader among bass players, Ken Gradney.

The second side of the LP includes the title cut and chances for Richie Howard to come through on drum solos.

The album reminds simple, presenting a collection of some good, lazy listening music, and some moving country rock.

Let It Flow Elvin Bishop
Capricorn Records CP 0134

"Let It Flow" shows great progress and development in a truly country-rock sound. Elvin Bishop supplies lead vocals and alternates between electric acoustic and slide guitar with Johnny Vernazza.

Side one turns into an involving album, with "Honeybabe," a cut of pounding piano riffs.

Then Elvin Bishop really reaches down south, straining his voice to reach a low country drawl.

"Watermelons" starts off with a furious exchange of lead guitar, then develops into solos of alternating slide guitar and piano.

"Me and my ole lady ain't been gettin' along
If things don't get better, I'll soon be long gone."

The side finishes with an involving "Travelin' Shoes," a fine mixture of simple lyrics leading into long developing guitar runs.

The title cut rocks with a spiritual sing along and is followed by "Hey Good Lookin'," an old Hank Williams tune cranked up a few steps.

The side also contains "Can't Hold Myself In Line," a Merle Haggard song.

"I'm going fishin'
Hook, sinker and Line
I'm going fishin'
just to ease my mind"

Again the band gets real country on "Fishin'" and a heartbreak-ballad, "Can't go back."

The musically sound group rounded out with bassist Michael (Fly) Brooks, Phil Aaberg on piano and Don Baldwin on drums, soars to extreme musical quality with appearances by Richard Betts, Toy Caldwell, Sly Stone, Steve Miller, Paul Hornsby and numerous others on horn and reed arrangements.

Cashier's Office Uses Camera

Alan M. Crouse

FTU's cashier office is using a camera-equipped machine for cashing checks this quarter.

The machine, common to supermarkets, takes pictures simultaneously of the check and the person cashing it.

According to Mr. James Davis, University Cashier, the machine, which is on loan to the university, is a security measure against invalid checks. Davis declined to give a figure on dollar losses due to bad checks, but said the machine is more of a preventive measure, because of the many personal checks cashed by members of the campus community.

Mr. Joseph Gomez, University Comptroller, made the decision to try the machine because it was "good security". Gomez said he did not know if there were any dollars lost through lost checks, but added the loss is considerable in man-hours because of the follow-up on bad checks.

Gomez added that the machine would be an asset, if the armored car which serves FTU were ever robbed, because a microfilm record of all checks is maintained on campus.

But, Gomez said, the main reason is to the psychological deterrent for someone attempting to cash a check of up to the $50.00 maximum, knowing there is not enough funds to cover it.

According to Davis, the machine uses rolls of 750 exposure film costing $16.00 a reel.

Student Air Fare Sought

by Paula Wisor

The National Student Lobby is fighting for low-cost student air travel.

A federation of students and student governments, the NSL, is taking action for adoption of Congressional legislation which will insure a national air transportation policy that will benefit students.

Arthur Rodbell, Executive Director of the National Student Lobby, announced that NSL's lobbying strategy will center around the passage of two bills by Congress, S.1739 and S.2651.

One of these bills, S.2651, would reinstate discount fares on a standby basis for youth under 22, senior citizens over 65, and handicapped persons.

Due to NSL's massive lobbying effort, S.2651 was unanimously passed by the Senate in November of 1973, and is due to come up for hearing before the House Subcommittee's next order of business.

The second bill, S.1739, would liberalize the conditions under which U.S. airlines may offer inclusive tour charters to the public.

This bill would remove restrictions which now prohibit airlines from offering the lowest possible prices and the greatest selection of packages to the traveling public.

"Students stand to gain in different ways from each of these bills," Rodbell said. "According to the U.S. Office of Education, 1.6 million students commute 500 miles or more between their homes and school. Therefore, the cost of air travel is no small component in the overall cost of a college education. When travel costs suddenly and dramatically increase, an extreme burden is imposed upon the student, and the student's family."

Bill S.2651 would allow the student with a flexible time schedule to travel standby at a reduced price and could save students as much as 100 million dollars annually.

If bill S.1739 is passed, it would provide the student a greatly expanded opportunity to travel by group charter, and save in many cases more than half of what would be the current costs of their travel.

Both bills appear to have excellent chances of passage before Congress adjourns for the November elections. However, letters are needed now from students who care about the high cost of air travel.

Write your Representative, Care of House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515 expressing your support for the passage of bill S.2651, and to your two Senators, Care of U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510 stating complete support for S.1739.

Pink Floyd Reviewed

By Mike Cerni

Pink Floyd is a unique group of musicians. Their style is hardly defined and the majority of their music has no actual cohesive element. It is more of a reflection of man's primal instincts and moods.

They do not labor themselves with the more traditional process of music making, but then again can not be classified as jazz artists. Their music is what the "over 40" generation might label "acid rock".

Instead of turning sound into music, they take sound and turn it into emotion. (Or noise, depending on which generation you belong to.)

In concert, Pink Floyd has to be experienced to be realized.

Their tour of the United States last year following the release of their highly successful (and still very popular) album, "Dark Side of the Moon", which left even the most veteran of concert goers in a wide-eyed stupor.

Their quadrophonic speaker arrangement and the artful use of it, combined with their talent and ingenious use of synthesizers, sound effects and lights, made their '73 tour one of the most talked about in recent years.

If they could do what they did on stage, just think what they could do with a full length motion picture.

Well, even the greatest artists have their limitations, and Pink Floyd, I'm afraid to say, has theirs.

Pink Floyd is the type of group one goes to hear instead of to see. Their music stirs the imagination to the point where one doesn't need to see the musicians to feel the music.

Apparently the group has a misconcieved notion about their public image.

Instead of transforming the music into a visual art, which should have been a creatively easy thing to do considering the variety and inventiveness of the music, the band aims the camera at itself, and in an apparently egocentric manner, performs the music.

The movie seemed more of a public relations effort, or even more, like an hour and a half message to their fans, complete with candid shots of the stars eating dinner, ("I'll have another slice of pie without the crust") and dubbing tracks on cuts from "Dark Side of the Moon" ("It's not too loud is it?")

Most of the music was performed in an ancient amphitheatre, (Pompeii, if I'm not mistaken) and the recording was decent.

Of course the soundtrack was mixed down into mono which was a major drawback.

If Pink Floyd decides to make another movie, I hope it isn't another mini-concert. I didn't exactly relish the idea of paying three bills to see a remake of something I had paid six to see previously.

It would be interesting to see a film with a bit more creativity and imagination, something that I'm sure Pink Floyd is not short of.

Television in dorm is tested after electrical storm caused a voltage hike, damaging set. (Photo by Fred Sommers)

Voltage Increase Caused By Storm

Arla Filko

Electrical storms were the cause of a sharp voltage increase in several buildings and one dorm on campus, the weekend of September 30-31.

Florida Power and Light Company was notified of the trouble and all dorms and buildings have been double checked, according to George Rendulic, Superintendent of Maintenance.

Each building on campus is equipped with a transformer that adjusts voltage and during the course of the storm high frequency vibrations set in loosening the adjustor.

Normal voltage on campus is between 117 and 125 volts. "We have run a voltage check on all dorms and buildings," explained Rendulic. "The dorms are now running between 123 and 125 volts, which is perfect."

"This is the first time it has ever happened on campus," Rendulic said.

Between 80 to 100 incandescent light bulbs were lost and it is rumored that one television in "D" dorm was damaged.
"This incident could have caused the TV damage," admitted Rendulic, adding that a pre-existing defect in the set could have cause it to blow as well.

Videotape Made By Cutcher

By Marcy Muramatsu

What thoughts run through the mind of a dying man? Laurence Wyatt, who teaches the English course "Death and Dying" at FTU recorded a one-hour videotape this summer of the thoughts and emotions of terminally ill faculty member Leonard Cutcher.

Cutcher, of the College of Business Administration's Accountancy Department, died Oct. 5 of cancer of the throat and lungs.

Wyatt said he and Cutcher met as a result of a call from one of Cutcher's colleagues. Cutcher had heard about the "Death and Dying" class and in essence "put himself at my disposal," Wyatt said.

As for the history, Cutcher underwent an annual physical, and complained of a sore throat, Wyatt said. He was referred to a specialist, who informed him that he had inoperable cancer of the throat and lungs. He was told that he had a maximum of 18 months to live.
"Even his first reaction was not one of escape," Wyatt continued. "He immediately began to put his affairs in order. He took care of everything--the insurance, even his own funeral arrangements."
He was fully ready to die--then realized that maybe he was pushing it a little, Wyatt said. Although he knew death was inevitable, he began struggling to stretch the time span. The only thing he gave up was mowing the lawn.

"He continued to be intellectually vigorous," said Wyatt. "I was most impressed by his honesty. He didn't deny what was happening--he was an exceptional man."
Wyatt also emphasized Cutcher's great sense of humor.
Cutcher said some people were embarrassed when confronted by the knowledge of his death, but Wyatt said he even joked about it to put people at ease.
"Cutcher loved teaching--he always wanted to help students in any way he could. That's why he wanted to make the tape," Wyatt explained. "The only stipulation the tape was made under was that it would never be used commercially."

The tape which has not been shown publicly yet will soon be viewed by Wyatt's "Death and Dying" class.
Wyatt said Cutcher answered all the questions put to him honestly and openly. Cutcher said he did not believe in life after death, and wasn't afraid of what lay ahead.
"I believe he wasn't afraid, because of the way he answered the questions," Wyatt said.
In reference to Cutcher's sense of humor, Wyatt said, "if I didn't use the tape only for academic use, Cutcher swore he'd be back to 'haunt me'."

Navy Recruits

All candidates who are approved for the program are enlisted in the Reserve for six years.
Any who drop out for other than physical reasons must serve two years in an enlisted status. Those who complete NUPOC (C) are required to spend three years in active duty.

Recruiters admit the NUPOC (C) is highly selective, with only 150 applicants being selected nationwide each year. But, say Navy representatives, the opportunities are "terrific" if one can make the grade.
The Navy Information Team, which can provide additional information concerning NUPOC (C) and other military opportunities for college students, will return to the FTU campus, Tuesday, November 12, through Friday, November 15, from nine A.M. to four P.M. in the Engineering Building.

Rhode Island for nineteen weeks. Graduation from OCS gives the candidate enlist status. Twenty-four weeks of training at the Nuclear Power School and 26 weeks at a Training Unit follow, and those who are approved for submarine duty may attend an additional five weeks of Submarine School at New London, Conn., or Pearl Harbor.

Text of SG Election Letter

The following is a letter to Hunter Potts, SG President, from the FTU Elections Commission forwarded to the FuTure

Dear Hunter;

We the Elections Commission would like to explain to you and the students of FTU our reasons for refusing to certify the Fall Senate elections. We have carefully examined the operation of the election, and have discovered numerous problem areas. In our judgement the election did not meet the standards which the students can rightfully expect.

The statutory violations have already been outlined in our official report. But certain other areas, while not clear violations of the elections statute, were important causes of the problems encountered. The Elections Commission was not instituted until late in the organization of the election. This made it near impossible to follow the schedule called for by the statute. Those named to the commission were all members of the Student Government cabinet. They were involved in other Student Government activities, and found it difficult to keep close watch over the election procedures.

Some, before learning of their appointment to the commission had been actively involved in promoting individual candidates. Finally, the statute was being used for the first time and there was a lack of unanimous understanding of its meaning.

We would like to make it very clear that we have found no evidence that these violations were purposeful. They were simply errors made in a good faith effort to operate an election under difficult circumstances. In light of this we would like to recommend improvements in procedure which will produce a more legitimate election.

A new Elections Commission should be created including some individuals not currently involved in Student Government. All statutory provisions should be enforced to the letter. Voting should be moved to a location more heavily trafficked by students. In the future, the Student Senate should amend its statutes to avoid misunderstanding and confusion. In future elections the Elections Commission should be appointed well in advance of the election. We hope that all students will understand that this action represents a positive attempt by members of Student Government to provide the kind of representation which the students of the university deserve and urgently require.

Winless Week For FTU Soccer

Knights Lose To FIU; Tie Georgia Tech

by Pete Haas

FTU met Florida International University last Thursday afternoon here in another hard fought and fast soccer game. The Sunblazers of FIU came into the game rated fifth in the South and found the Knights to be worthy opponents on this day. There was no humiliation in the Knight's loss by the score of 3-1. After a shaky first half, FTU regained its poise and played the highly ranked Sunblazers on equal terms the rest of the way.

It was FTU who controled the tempo of the game for the first ten minutes but then FIU came on and showed their power. After good scoring chances were missed by both teams and some excellent goaltending by both goalies, it was FIU who drew first blood on a score by Trakoon Jirasuradet. A shot had been deflected wide but Jirasuradet was in the right place and converted. Next it was Bernard Joseph who scored for FIU on a beautiful acrobatic goal. FTU goalie Winston DuBose made a save but the ball found Joseph on the left of the goal and he cleverly steered it home. When Eric Rutemoller scored just before half, DuBose had no chance. It was a hard high shot from 25 yards that found the upper left hand corner of the net. Mark Johnston of FTU said it was the hardest shot he's seen in soccer in three years. Sam Sedlachek assisted on the last two goals and the half ended 3-0, FIU.

FTU opened hard in the second half again but could not connect. Charlie Campbell, Tony Smith, Gus Romero and Reynolds Lys continously fired shot after shot but just couldnt get it past the second of three goalies FIU was to use that day. At the other end of the field DuBose was playing up to his All-State form and thwarting the FIU offense.

Then it finally came. After a penalty on FIU inside the goal area, FTU was awarded a direct kick. Campbell was given the shot, one on one with the goalie, and he beat the goalie to the low right side for FTU's first score in two games against powerful, nationally recognized soccer teams.

By Pat Murray

Although they outplayed the outshot their powerful opponent from Georgia Tech Sunday afternoon, the FTU soccer team had to settle for a 1-1 tie.

Hampered by intermittent rain falls and the rough house, sometimes unsportsmanlike play of the visitors, the Knights still dominated play and outshot the Yellow Jackets 18-12.

FTU scored first in the opening half, when Gus Romero took a head pass from Charlie Campbell and booted the ball by Tech goalie Eddie Perez for a 1-0 lead.

Then the rains came. Although it wasn't heavy or long-lasting, the rain was just enough to make the field slick and cause many slips and falls before the afternoon was over. Midway through the second half, Tech's Mario Canohoati and FTU's Bill Balance got tangled up in front of the Knight goal and the ball trickled by goalie Winston DuBose to knot the score at 1-1.

The Knights kept steady pressure on the Yellow Jacket goal in the second half, evidenced by the 12 saves recorded by the Tech goalie, but were unable to push any points through.

In the late going frustration began to take its toll and tempers began to flare.

The pushing, punching, and elbow throwing resulted in two Georgia Tech players, Herado Gochicoa and Mario Morales, being ejected from the game.

The tie left FTU's season record at 2-3-1. Tech's ledger now stands at 16-1-3.

The Knight's next home game is Saturday at 10 a.m., when they take on Covenant of Tennessee.

"Flying Boleto" Guards The Net

By Pat Murray

If you happen to pass by the soccer field some afternoon and view a young man leaping to and fro in front of the FTU goal, with his body contorted in various unorthodox positions, you will have witnessed the "Flying Boleto" doing his thing.

Winston DuBose, nicknamed the "Flying Boleto" by his coach and teammates, is the goalie for the FTU soccer team and one of the keys to the Knights hope to have a successful season this year.

With the flair and finesse that he plays the sport, one might think that DuBose has been playing the game for a decade. He actually got started just four years ago in a physical education class at Trinity Prep.

"We were getting up a game in P.E.," DuBose remembers "and there were only two of us left without a position. I decided to be the goalie and that's how it all got started."

"A goalie has to practice a bit differently from the rest of the

From his P.E. class experiment he got an offer from the Trinity coach to come out for the school team. DuBose made the squad as a junior and logged quite a bit of playing time when the starting goalie became injured.

His senior year at Trinity he had an outstanding season and was lured to FTU by soccer coach Jim Rudy. During his freshman year here he garnered state-wide honors and accepted an offer for an Olympic team try-out.

DuBose attributes a great portion of his success to the fine coaching of Rudy, the hustling play of all his teammates, the guidance of the Lord, and a lot of time spent training.

team," DuBose related. "Since I'm the only one on the team who may touch the ball with my hands I spend a great deal of time catching, throwing and blocking."

down on my knees facing a wall, throw the ball against the wall, and practice blocking the ball with my chest."

He added that there were several drills used to improve his overall play. "Sometimes I get DuBose feels that quickness and form are two essentials for soccer. He says "If a player works on his technique faithfully, his quickness will develop right along. Perfection of technique is the key to success as a goalie."

The Knights play a tough schedule this fall with opponents including Howard University, Florida International, and and South Florida. But DuBose believes the exposure to high caliber competition will improve FTU as a team.

He projects the Knights will win ten games this year," if we get a few breaks and stay healthy."

The future for DuBose is uncertain at the present. He would like to coach on a high school level or possibly take a crack at pro ball in the North American Soccer League.

But for now he's happy to be the Flying Boleto on the FTU soccer team.

If you're out by the soccer field this fall, take in his act. It's far from a circus.

Scoreboard

The Intramural Flag Football season now two weeks old has teams battling for championship bowl berths in the three leagues. Action here is from last Monday's game between TKE II and SOMF both in the Independent Black League. TKE II won 13-6.

LXA Finally Beats ATO

By Joe DeSalvo

It took Lamda Chi Alpha four years to defeat Alpha Tau Omega in Flag-football but it couldn't have come at a better time. LXA routed the usually tough ATO squad 27-7 last Wednesday, Oct. 9, to stay tied with Tau Kappa Epsilon for first place in the Fraternity League. LXA and TKE went into yesterday's action tied for the lead at 3-0.

In other Wednesday action, Delta Alpha Epsilon topped Pi Kappa Alpha.

Jackson's three touchdowns passes including two of them to Kevin Riley in the second half enabled TKE to shutout KS 26-0. John Kirkpatrick's second half TD gave SAE a 14-7 victory over PKA.

In the Independent League action Monday, TKE II got by SOMF)Sit On My Face(13-6. In an offensive battle, the Bunglars came from behind to tie Faculty Staff and Students 25-25 after trailing 13-7 at the half. Rex Riepe scored two TD's for FS&S.

In a low scoring contest, Black Student Union protected a Ray Thomas TD in the first half to silence the Mafia 7-0.

On Tuesday, PKA became LXA's third victim as they were handed a 47-12 scrubbing. The offensive attack for LXA was led by Q's John Hinman and Dave Hudick throwing three and four TDs respectively. Joe Lucci was the big gun catching three while Guy Mauro picked up a pair.

ATO got their first win of the season as they over powered KS 46-0. QB Joe Hart had a field day completing seven TD passes including three of them to reliable Kevin Powers.

After a scoreless defensive battle in the first half, Sigma Chi took charge behind QB Phil Merrick after the intermission to hand upset minded Chi Phi a 20-12 loss. After a scoreless defensive battle in the first half, Sigma Chi took charge behind QB Phil Merrick after the intermission to hand upset minded Chi Phi a 20-12 loss. Gary VanHoose hauled in two TDs for Sigma Chi while Chi Phi QB Steve Kurdziolik threw one and ran 40 yards for another.

TKE continued their winning ways stopping DTD 19-0. Joe Gicobbe scored two TDs to aid the TKE effort.

It was a crucial ballgame for both ATO and LXA, each is fighting for the Greek League Title. But at the end it was LXA's brilliant defensive goal line stands along with some clutch offensive plays to end their long drought of winning a "must" game.

LXA quarterback, John Hinman, had one of his best performances as he threw three touchdown passes with Joe DeSalvo grabbing two of them. Throughout the entire game, LXA continued to hit the open man to lead them down field. The turning point of the game was LXA's Jay Ruckers' 82 yard TD after intercepting a Joe Hart pass in LXA's end zone in the first half, giving them an early 13-0 lead.

LXA's defense on four occasions stopped the potent ATO offense deep in LXA territory. Only a late first half Nate Smith TD saved ATO from being white-washed.

A first half TD by DTD's Bob Crotty stood up as DTD shocked Chi Phi 7-0. It was DTD's first victory in three years.
